The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE Sicilian invasion entered its fifth day with good fortune still favoring the hard-driving Allies, but it seemed certain that concerted efforts were being made to prevent the Axis from the unbelievable thing of quitting cold.

The first counter-attack of any weight was that hurled by the Germans at our American forces under General Patton on the west wing yesterday. There is some passing speculation whether this assault was directed at the Yankees purely because of tactical necessity, or whether the embittered Hitlerites had in mind discrediting United States efforts for propaganda purposes. Be that as may, we took the attack in stride and smashed it.

Events are moving about so swiftly that he who makes forecasts is bulging his luck, but it looks now as though the broad plain of Catania—one of the battlegrounds of the ages—may continue its old role and become the scene of the decisive engagement in the fight for Sicily.

This fertile granary, which crowds with daring insolence against the volcanic foothills of grumbling Etna, about halfway along the eastern coast of the island, lies athwart the route which the Allied forces on the east wing are pursuing northwards towards the strategic port of Messina. The Axis will make its first big show of resistance here. The Catanian plain affords the best field for the operation of mechanized forces in this generally mountainous island, and tank divisions presumably will be used in strength by both Allies and Axis.

The port of Catania on the edge of the plain is Sicily's second largest city, with a population of a quarter million. In its some 2,700 years of adventure it has been the center of many wars. It has been destroyed, and has risen again from its own ruins, so often that it's hard to keep the count—not to mention the assaults from erupting Etna and earthquakes.

DESPITE its varied experience of hard knocks, however, Catania probably never was hit harder than it will be if it tries to resist the march of General Montgomery, with his famous British Eighth Army and hard-boiled Canadians. Perhaps the already bomb-battered city will remain passive while the decision is sought on the neighboring plain.

Catania is 59 miles by rail south of Messina, the all-important port which is the island's railroad for the mainland's railroads. Trains are ferried across the narrow strait of Messina, thus maintaining a vital communication.

Isolation of Sicily from the Italian peninsula was issued today by Robert W. Campbell, chairman of the rationing board.

Only a few responded to last night's appeal and many more are needed for tonight and Thursday.

Those responding are requested to be at the Memorial building at 7:15 p. m. They will assist in the renewal, processing and mailing of the new coupons.

YANKS MOVING TOWARD MUNDIA

Only Frequent Clashes Reported As Troops Creep Through Jungles

BY MURLIN SPENCER
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 14.—Green-clad United States troops, in frequent gunfire exchanges with the enemy, moved stealthily forward through New Georgia's jungles today upon Munda.

It might well mark the beginning of the end of that Japanese air base.

The enemy's garrison there appeared doomed to fight it out with what men and weapons were on hand.

Reinforcement by sea had failed. Remnants of a Japanese task force fled the disastrous scene of the Kula gulf above Munda, leaving behind the sunken hulks of a cruiser and from three to five destroyers to add to nine others lost there a week ago.

Support by the Japanese air force also failed. Yesterday 18 enemy divebombers, protected by 10 Zeros, came over bent on pounding our positions. The raiders never reached their objective. American Corsairs and Lightnings slashed into them at Langdale point on New Georgia.

Four Zeros and a Corsair, whose pilot parachuted to safety, were shot down. The bombers jettisoned their loads and fled.

DESCRIBES TRAVELS FOR QUOTA CLUB

Speaking to members of the Quota club at their dinner meeting last night in the Memorial building, Mrs. Stanton Heck gave an interesting account of her recent trip to Mexico.

Mrs. Heck, who spent nearly two months in Mexico City, described the architecture, customs and life of the people and the scenic beauty of the country. She related her experiences in traveling by truck and burro to the scene of a new volcano which was discovered Feb. 25, and has since devastated the countryside.

Miss Elsie E. Thomas, acting president, was in charge of the meeting. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Helen Brumbaugh.

Dinner tables were decorated with garden flowers arranged by Miss Ella Stamp and Mrs. Mabel Douthett. A picnic is planned for the meeting at Centennial park July 27.

Curfew Proposal Rests With Council After Civic Forum

Citizens Cite Necessity of Proper Law Enforcement If Measure Passes; Joint Committee Studies Plan Further

The proposal to have a curfew law enacted in Salem as a means of curbing juvenile delinquency today was in the hands of the joint ordinance and safety committee group of city council following a civic meeting last night in which the merits of such a law were discussed pro and con.

Council President C. F. Zimmerman referred the issue back to a council committee for whatever action will be taken by council after representatives of civic organizations in the community had joined with the legislators in discussing the curfew ordinance and problems related to it in the event it becomes a law.

The consensus of these present evolved around the point that it will be useless to adopt a curfew law for Salem unless it is enforced.

The open forum period followed the reading by Solicitor Henry L. Reese of several ordinances now in effect in such cities as Youngstown, Cleveland, Columbus and Massillon.

Among the citizens' group present were Joe Kelley, Memorial building manager; Floyd W. McKee and Eugene Young of the Rotary club; Dr. George F. Jones, representing the Kiwanis club; John J. Lewis and Carl Auman of the Lions club and High School Principal Beman Ludwig.

Most of the curfew ordinances passed by other Ohio communities are similar, the solicitor pointed out, with the curfew hour ranging from 10:30 to 11 p. m. and the age limit at 16 years, with only one exception. The exception was 17 years.

The laws of the other cities provide penalties to parents or guardians of from $5 to $25 and for the child a fine not to exceed $10 in the event of an arrest.

RURAL HOMEMAKERS WILL ATTEND CAMP

The annual camp period of the rural homemakers of Columbiana county will be held at Camp Grag, in Medina county, Aug. 5-9. Miss Erma Ramsey, home demonstration agent, announced today.

Applications for enrollment are being received in the office of County Agent Floyd Lower at Lisbon. Registration will close July 26.

The outing is attended by a number of farm women from Columbiana county. This year the campers will share the outing with women from Summit, Holmes, Wayne, Ashland, Medina and Cuyahoga counties.

In addition to the recreation and relaxation, the ladies will attend classes in handicraft, nature study and philosophy of homemaking. Arrangements also are being made to secure prominent speakers.

MAXIMUM PAY RATES ARE SET

Salem One of 38 Cities Included In War Labor Board Schedule

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, July 14.—The regional War Labor board today established maximum pay rates it may approve for certain key jobs in 38 Ohio cities.

Lewis M. Gill, regional WLB chairman, said the rates for the first time set up guidelines of what industry and labor "may expect from the board in cases involving comparison of rates in different plants. They comply with the President's hold-the-line order, he added.

The scales, permanent in Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo and tentative in other municipalities pending completion of surveys now under way, do not affect workers already receiving higher pay, the WLB declared, while employers paying less than the maximum are not compelled to raise wages.

The WLB said raises still must have its approval and increases all the way up to the maximums may be refused if a sizeable wage jump is involved.

The board said it could approve rates above the maximums only in "rare and unusual" cases or those those granted in accordance with the "Little Steel" formula.

Employers wishing to pay graduated scales, the board asserted, may seek increases under a range-of-rates formula instead of flat maximums. The midpoint of such ranges must be the single rate, thus in a case where the single rate was 60 cents the range would be from 55 to 65 cents.

Reply to Criticism
Replying to criticisms that common labor rates set for some cities in most plants already were above WLB rates, thus precluding further raises except under the "Little Steel" formula, Gill said in a statement that the maximums had been set "deliberately" at a level 10 per cent below the average paid in an area.

This is in line, he asserted, with a national wage stabilization policy which says "You are not suffering from a gross inequity if your wages are within 10 per cent of the average being paid in your area for a similar job."

Amity Lodge to Install Officers Thursday Night

Amity lodge 124, I. O. O. F., will install officers for the coming term at a meeting at 7:45 p. m. Thursday.

District Deputy Grand Master Charles F. Hall of East Palestine and his staff will be in charge. Committees and appointive officers will be announced at this meeting. Official reports will be read. The meeting will be followed by a social period. Lunch will be served.

Ohio Ranks Fourth In Tin Can Salvage Drive
COLUMBUS, July 14.—Ohio placed fourth in the nation in tin can salvage during the first four months of 1943, sending 5,202 tons, nearly 47,000,000 cans, to detinning and shredding plants, the state salvage committee reported. The national total was 80,177 tons.

ALLIES DRIVE ON; RESISTANCE MAY STIFFEN

Italians Acknowledge Sicilian Advances; Germany Visited by RAF

(By Associated Press)
Allied invasion troops—already overrunning roughly one-tenth of Sicily—struck deeper into that island bastion today against gathering Axis resistance and major armored battles were predicted soon.

The Italians said Allied forces were penetrating into the mountains in southeastern Sicily, and that British troops pushing northward on the east coast were facing the Catanian plain.

Meanwhile the air war against Germany was intensified with a smashing new assault upon Aachen. A strong concentration of German troops was reported being rushed to positions athwart the line of the rapid British advance near Catania.

The American Seventh army was expanding its 60-mile front on the south Sicilian coast, joining with the Canadians and British for an unbroken front. The Americans were eager for battle with the crack German Hermann Goering division that they had bested in an attack Sunday.

Bomb Enemy Shipping
Allied warplanes maintaining the fearful pounding of the Axis in Sicily sank two more enemy merchant ships north of the island and damaged two more destroyers yesterday, and shot down 42 Axis aircraft in widespread operations. Allied headquarters announced. Seven Allied planes were lost in the raids that hit enemy ground transports and airfields at Milo and Catania.

Over Europe, hundreds of U. S. warplanes, including Flying Fortress, roared out in an hour-long procession after dawn to hammer Axis targets after the RAF last night shattered the rail and industrial center of Aachen in the German Rhineland.

Twenty big bombers were reported lost in the attack on the city of 164,000. The Germans acknowledged a large number of casualties. Airfields in France also were hit in the night attacks.

AIR RAID ALERT SUCCESSFUL HERE
The surprise daylight alert here last night was described as satisfactory today by Civilian Defense Corps Commander Vincent L. Malloy, despite a delay in receiving the second test call from the Youngstown headquarters. All defense units were sufficiently mobilized.

The first alarm, a confidential warning received by civilian defense heads, came through at 6:35 p. m. When the second warning failed to reach the control center by 7:25 p. m., Chief Malloy notified Youngstown defense officials who claimed they sent the test at 7:02 p. m. Malloy learned later, however, that no record on any call had been made through the telephone company office at Youngstown to Salem at that time, so the test was not relayed here at the proper time, the chief declared.

Delay in receiving the warning made several minutes difference in the period of time between the second and third warnings, but Test No. 3, the second Test 2 and Test 4 were carried out on schedule.

Warnings in various sections of the city reported few violations of their orders, by motorists or pedestrians. The few who were reluctant to obey the wardens' directions will receive court summons.

Lisbon Farmer Injured In Harvest Accident
Earl Girard, 45, farmer living on the Worman rd., north of Lisbon, suffered a badly lacerated left arm Tuesday afternoon while repairing a binder machine on his farm. His condition is reported as satisfactory at Central Clinic.

Girard was making an adjustment underneath the machine, when the horses became frightened and ran off, catching his arm in the machinery. John Shelton and Salem Gromley, assisting in the harvest, succeeded in stopping the team and extricated Girard.

Five Youths Suffer Only Minor Hurts In Mishap
Five youths, riding in a car driven by Rudy Novak of West Point, escaped with minor cuts and bruises when the car left the road on Route 30, five miles south of Lisbon, last night, plunged through a guard rail, hit a utility pole and turned over an embankment.

Two who received first aid treatment in Lisbon were Albin Ronchak and George Vokovich of West Point. Others in the car were Steve Gbur, apprentice seaman at Great Lakes naval training station, and Mike Anderson, also of West Point.

Strikers Are Fired
ALTIQUIPPA, Pa., July 14.—Sixty-six street and sanitation employees of this Ohio valley borough of 28,000 who have been idle through a week-long strike for wage increases and union recognition were dismissed by the borough council last night.

Sixty of the men are members of the CIO state, county and municipal workers of America.

Verdict of Accidental Death Follows Mishap
Coroner Arnold Devon today ruled accidental death of Thomas George, 24, truck driver, of near Cambridge, who was killed in an accident on Route 7 Monday morning. George, driving a steel truck, apparently slowed down for the Pennsylvania railroad crossing on Route 7, found the brakes on his truck failed to hold, and attempted to jump from the vehicle. He was crushed beneath the tractor and trailer wheels. The body was taken yesterday to Byesville, near Cambridge, for burial.

MARTINIQUE ON SIDE OF ALLIES
Transfer of Allegiance Occurs On Anniversary of Bastille Day

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, July 14.—Martinique, for many months the only French non-Axis-occupied territory hold out against cooperating in the fight to liberate France, returned to the fold today and placed its ships and resources at the disposal of the United Nations.

It was significant to many observers that the formal transfer of allegiance came on the 154th anniversary of the storming of the Bastille—a revolutionary act that marked the birth of French freedom.

Henri Hoppenot, delegate of the French Committee of National Liberation, was due to arrive at Fort de France today and formally take over from Admiral Georges Robert the authority he formerly exercised as French high commissioner of the Antilles.

The state department last night made clear that Admiral Robert—long a hold-out against cooperation in the fight to Free France—had decided at last to relinquish his authority to a representative of the French committee in Algiers.

Panama Canal Front Yard
The French Antilles (Martinique and Guadeloupe) are in the front yard of the Panama canal. What goes on there can not be a matter of indifference to Washington.

The state department said Henri Hoppenot had assured the United States government that the "facilities and resources" of the French Antilles would be mobilized to the fullest extent in the war against the Axis, and that "all presently immobilized French naval and merchant ships" at Martinique would be made available.

Most important of the naval vessels now at Martinique is the 22,000-ton Albatross carrier Bearn. Also at Fort de France are the fast Cruiser Emile Berlin, the training Cruiser Jeanne D'Arc, various auxiliary vessels and a number of tankers.

Evidence that the United States government was satisfied with the arrangements to turn authority over to Hoppenot was seen in the lifting of the food blockade clamped on Martinique by this country last November, and in the announcement that relief supplies would be sent to Martinique and Guadeloupe without delay.

Masons, O.E.S. Plan Outing On July 28
Salem Masons and Eastern Stars are completing plans for their annual picnic at the Salem Country club Wednesday afternoon and evening, July 28.

A program of contests and games for children and adults is being arranged by the sports committee. The outing will feature a basket picnic dinner.

Charles E. Wernet is chairman of the general picnic committee, which includes D. F. Ashead, E. G. Wadsworth and A. D. Nicholas.

Other committee chairmen are: Grounds, George P. Loxley; chairs and tables, W. W. Tolerton; food, Mrs. H. D. Loop and Mrs. Guy Coppock; ice cream and coffee, Oliver Swope; public address, C. K. McCaskey; publicity, Ed. Jenkins; bridge, Mrs. A. D. Nicholas; sports and contests, F. E. Cope and A. E. Wright; transportation, Mrs. William G. Aldom and Mrs. M. A. Kelly.

JULY MORNING IN SICILY

Here at home, this was a pleasant July morning. It was a July morning in Sicily, too, but not so pleasant. On that strategic island more than half a million men were braced for one of the climactic battles of World War II.

All of them were away from home, even most of the Italians. The Americans and Canadians who had dropped on Sicily from airplanes, or been put ashore in invasion barges must have thought many times about the strangeness of their situation—fighting on a remote island most of them had heard about only as a name, if at all, before the last few weeks.

Back here at home on a pleasant July day, this is something to think about. Those men on Sicily and all the other men who shortly will be fighting for footholds elsewhere on the land mass of Europe are in history's greatest battle of supply. They couldn't keep on fighting a week after their supplies quit coming. Their dependence on maximum effort back home is absolute.

They are willing and are proving themselves able to do their part in the war. There never was any doubt that they would. But there still is some doubt about the home front. Steel production still is being hurt by strikes in the coal mines of Pennsylvania. The battle of supply which the United States must win against the Germans and the Japanese still is being thrown out of gear by outbursts of temper and pettiness on the part of men who have forgotten they may be affecting the welfare of Americans looking into the face of death on Sicily, in New Guinea, in the sky over Germany—a hundred battlefronts throughout the world. If they remembered, they would find some way to stay at work and settle their arguments some other way than striking. Perhaps the news from Sicily—the good news that must be kept good—will help all Americans to remember they must work harder now to back up their fighting men.

NO PUSHOVERS

False hopes of cheap and easy victory in Sicily have been raised higher by what seems to be confirmation in official reports of the first stages of the invasion. The beach-heads were established with slight difficulty. The enemy did not take the heavy toll expected in such an operation.

But the enemy is ready and waiting. There were no pushovers for United States troops in North Africa, and it is foolish to hope for pushovers in Sicily. It may be true that the Italians do not have their heart in the fight, but their nominal resistance added to the earnest resistance of the Germans cannot be held lightly.

The mistake of under-rating the opposition is confined to the home front, fortunately. Our troops abroad, many of them battle-seasoned now, know better. As they move increasingly into the thick of battle on all fronts, they know that the enemy before them has been fully trained to carry out the ambitious designs of the Axis. Victory must be won by superiority in all things—in fighting, in producing weapons, in developing morale, in offering hope for the future. Good intentions are not enough; they must be put into effect with perfect performances. The courage and efficiency of American fighting forces abroad must be matched by sacrifice and co-operation at home, where many still suffer from the illusion that victory is going to be easy.

Invasion of Sicily, signal for the beginning of the offensive that is to destroy Germany, should be the signal, also, for correcting whatever has been wrong with America's civilian attitude toward the war.

KELLEY AS COACH

The board of education could do no better than to make Joe M. Kelley coach of football at Salem High school, if it can persuade him to accept. The manager of the Memorial building has demonstrated for many years that he knows how to handle boys. As city recreational director he has done wonders with the means and the help at his command. He knows football better than most of the coaches Salem High has had in many years and he knows how to get the most out of boys better than all of those coaches combined.

Salem High has not had a good football coach for many years. Coach Ray Overturn, now in the army, was not a great success. What the school needs is the type of coach and director that Joe Kelley has proved himself to be. The boys will work for a man like him, and the fans of the city will be behind him to a man.

CANNING REVIVAL

Though the art of canning never was lost—indeed, it was still growing by leaps and bounds—wartime necessity is producing a revival of interest.

Housewives and husbands who hadn't canned anything for years because it had become too cheap and easy to buy what was needed at the nearest grocery store are going back to their younger days when everybody canned from necessity. They are reading up on new wrinkles, including chiefly the pressure-cooking method, and wondering where they can beg or borrow a pressure cooker.

Younger women, who had played with canning, perhaps—sometimes not successfully—are reading books, attending lectures, obtaining first-hand help from mothers, mothers-in-law and neighbors. Without exception, everybody is trying to get a little closer to the glow of self-sufficiency that used to come during inspection of long cupboard shelves in the cellar filled with rows of neatly filled jars, then came during inspection of well stocked grocery stores and now, after rationing, must come from a combination of the two.

A RATHER adverse or portentous state of affairs is read from the predominant astral influences. Primarily, there seems to be a condition of doubt, confusion, perplexity. Perhaps personal appeal or social influence or intervention may be most powerful in unraveling obscure or threatening situations.

Refrain from impulsive, reckless or erratic moves, lest these estrange and defeat cherished aims or alienate those of sentimental attachment.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of unusual or peculiar situations, calling for much prudence, discretion and direct action in order to circumvent deep laid plans and schemes. While this menace may affect the business or professional associations, they are likely to have unhappy and regrettable reactions on the intimate affiliations. There may be estrangements or separations, unless clever grasp and defeat of pernicious forces be exerted.

Planning Diet For the Future

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IT MAY shock my readers to know that such an eminent authority on diet as I am was not invited to be a delegate to the International Food conference at Virginia Hot Springs, but such is the case. I was not invited for the same reason that a steel worker will not be invited to be a delegate at the peace conference: I am a practical man, and the boys at Virginia Hot Springs were just nice, sweet little theorists floating around in a rarefied atmosphere all their own.

I do not, in spite of the slight which was put upon me by this omission, however, share the indignation which my colleagues of the press voiced; their complaint: being that the conferences were held in private which excluded them from the debates.

Why It Was Private
I accept the only explanation which makes any sense as to why the conferences were held in private—that advanced by Mr. Frank Kent, the columnist. Mr. Kent said the reason the conferences were held in private was that nothing was going to happen at the conference.

Mr. Roosevelt threw out the suggestion one day that an international conference on food should be held, and then promptly forgot it. But some of his people in the Department of Agriculture took him seriously, and then asked the President what they should discuss. He hadn't the faintest idea whatever; who, and even what, had suggested the idea to him had entirely slipped his mind. But there the boys were with a conference on their hands, delegates invited and on the way, so the only way to cover up was to throw a smoke screen of secrecy around the whole affair. If nobody knew what happened at the conference, nobody would know that nothing happened.

Of course, the delegates had to talk about something and one or two hints have slipped out. That massive intellect—Surgeon-General Thomas Parran—according to my newspapers, gave out an interview in which he expressed one of the only two ideas he ever had. One was to the effect that the world was going to have to eat more vitamins and that the proper dietary allowance for an adult male at moderate work is 2,500 calories a day. This shopworn and shabby piece of half-information has been kicking around the nutrition laboratories of the world for nearly half a century, and if that is what the conferees talked about, no wonder they were ashamed to have anybody listen.

The other leak dripped from Mr. Paul Appleby, Under Secretary of Agriculture. It concerned an international two-price system for food supplies. Inasmuch as the Department of Agriculture has managed to jockey the most fertile country in the world into a food shortage, it seems a little visionary for one of their representatives to be talking about what to do with surpluses. The way this idea of Mr. Appleby's works is for France to be told it can't raise any more wheat, but that we will supply them. I can just see the French farmer obeying that fool order.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
M. P.: What is a thickened pleura? What causes it, and what can be done to clear it up?

Answer: The pleura is the covering of the lung. It is ordinarily protected from bacteria by its position deep in the body, but any inflammation of the lungs—pneumonia and tuberculosis are the common ones—may reach out to the pleura and cause inflammation. After the inflammation subsides, the pleura remains thickened. Nothing can be done to help it, but it causes no harm after the acute stage has subsided.

E. H. R.: Would quinine make a baby feeding on the breast ill if the mother took it for colds?

Answer: Yes.

Two Active Tuberculosis Cases Revealed by Clinic

LISBON, July 13 — A report of the mid-summer tuberculosis clinic held in the offices of the county health department last week shows two active new cases, one a three-month-old child.

The clinic, sponsored by the Columbiana County Public Health league through the sale of health seals at Christmas time, was conducted by Dr. E. E. Kirkwood, superintendent of the Mahoning county sanatorium, assisted by county health nurses, Miss Mary Bruey of Lisbon, Miss Thelma McKenzie and Mrs. Bernice Kessler of Salem.

Thirty-three persons were examined. One "arrested" case of tuberculosis was reported in addition to the two new cases.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — California's state treasurer, Charles G. Johnson, isn't taking any chances with valuable state records stored in the treasury vaults. He has had duplicate and photostatic copies of all essential documents made and is storing them in the Nevada state treasury, on the other side of the high Sierra from the California capital.

As Allies Invaded Sicily

The above picture radioed from North Africa shows a United States tank coming down the ramp of a landing barge, preparing to hit the beach for the invasion of Sicily.

AMERICAN BRED by FRANKEN MELONEY

SYNOPSIS

There was no threat of stormy weather when pretty Ann Rivers left her married sister's swank home in Bay Harbor, Maine. But on a lonely road outside Providence, she ran into a sleet storm—and a ditch—from which her car refused to budge. At the Tru-Friend Tourist Bungalow, where she sought help, the brusque young proprietor informs her the telephone is out of order. Paul Freund's kind mother, a kindly old lady, suggests that Ann take one of the cabins for the night. Sitting before the Friends' kitchen fire, Ann recalls her imperious sister Helen's disapproval of her plans to seek employment in New York and, if possible, locate a buyer for Broadfield's large farm in Connecticut. Mrs. Freund explains that Paul's wife, Carol, is expecting a baby. Ann sits with Carol while Paul is having his dinner and later, as she leaves for her cabin, elderly Mrs. Freund expresses the hope that Ann will not mind sharing it with Rosalinda, who proved to be a beautiful Great Dane, was not housed with her companions in the kennels outside. But the reason was soon obvious when Rosalinda's nine new puppies arrived. Returning to the main house for milk for Rosalinda, Ann is pressed into service by the local doctor in Carol's behalf.

CHAPTER SIX

She braced herself, but she was unprepared for the shock of Carol's still white face upon the pillow. The doctor seemed unprepared for it too. He sprang to the bed and lifted the limp wrist. "We'll have to work fast," he began whipping shades off the lamps. He tossed her a freshly laundered sheet from a pile on the table. "Pin that about a mile on the hair up in a towel."

She watched him lay out the contents of his instrument bag with sure swift fingers, and felt that before this country physician she stood in the presence of true greatness.

"Stand there," he gestured her to one side of the bed. "Do what I tell you to, when I tell you even if you don't understand why. And don't be afraid of your strength."

There was the strong smell of antiseptic in the room, and the scrape of forceps in a pan. She felt her knees turn fluid beneath her.

"Young lady, if you faint you may cost this girl her life." The doctor's voice was brutally frank. "We

SELF-SEALING CLOTH

BRITISH DISCOVERY

MANCHESTER, England — Discovery of a method of water-proofing cloth without the use of rubber or other materials was announced here, and the "self sealing" fabric now is being extensively supplied to the government for war purposes. It has not yet reached the civilian market, but a big future is predicted for it.

The method was evolved by Dr. F. H. Price of the British Cotton Industry Research association's Shirley Institute. The self-sealing cloth resulted from the realization that if the fibre of cotton could seal with moisture, it would block up the interstices and make fabric waterproofing without waterproofing.

might have to— Here, hold this." He handed her an ominous looking instrument wrapped in a towel. Her hands shook.

We might have to— The unfinished sentence was like a threat to her sanity. What might he have to do? She remembered that sometimes babies were sacrificed that the mother might live— Or was it the other way round?

Fevered moments of action lengthened, and finally passed, and still the battle for life was waged. Waves of giddiness approached her, and she bit her teeth into her lips until sharp pain drove the faintness away. Minutes or hours later—she didn't know which—she glanced up to see Paul standing in the doorway.

"More cloths, and more water!" the doctor ordered.

Ann took the kettles to Paul for refilling. "She's all right," she told him. "Everything is going to be all right." "Oh God," she prayed with all the power of prayer that resided within her. "Let the coming of this new soul be without sacrifice of life."

"Didn't want the water," the doctor muttered. "Wanted to get him out of the way." He glanced up at her. He seemed to pause to catch his breath and then he said, "All right. We're ready. Get yourself in hand. All your strength. It's either success or failure, and it won't be failure."

Her fingers tightened and the power of steel flowed into them. "It won't be failure!" She breathed it out between clenched teeth.

Then it was all over. She looked down at Carol. For a moment blackness came, and cleared. She saw the girl's slow breathing. A merciful oblivion enfolded and protected her, but already a pale, living beauty was returning to the young face, and pain lurked only the shadows.

There was a loud slap and then another. A thin reedy cry broke the stillness of the room. Ann wanted to get down on her knees. It was the same kind of cry that she had heard earlier in the night—the salute of young life to the world; young life clamoring to be made warm, and to be fed.

Ann slipped her feet out of her pumps, and leaned back in Mrs. Freund's kitchen rocker. She was tired beyond the hope of sleep, excited, too. The doctor had praised her to the skies. "I could make a fortune being a midwife," she told herself complacently. The rocker squeaked and she eased it to a stop for fear of disturbing Paul, tucked up in his mother's bed in the next room. "You get some rest, too," Mrs. Freund had begged of Ann. "I will stay with my daughter and my grandchild." How proud she had sounded! And how proud Paul was. His words kept coming back to her. "I can't thank you, I don't know how—" His voice had choked up, and his face had gotten puckery. Ann smiled. What a crazy night it had been! "End of Act One. There will be a slight wait before Act Two would be."

New York—a job—a rich buyer for the farm, perhaps. She pressed her finger tips against her eyes. It was pleasant to be the only one awake in a sleeping household. How peaceful; how quiet. Her eyes wandered to the old sampler over the kitchen door, "God Bless Our Home," done in cross-stitch, with wreathes of flowers. God had.

The storm had passed. Dawn was beginning to streak through the windows, and a steady drip off the eaves spelled a warm breeze from Long Island Sound. She thought, I must see that my car gets yanked out, first thing—

The ringing of a bell filtered through to her. She sprang out of her chair, picked up her slippers and raced to the door, pushing a strange young man halfway across the porch before she drew it closed behind her.

"What's the idea of ringing so loudly at this hour of the morning!" she exploded.

Send "Overture" by Film

Hollywood, Cal.—In the present nation-wide effort to show the Russians how much the Americans admire them, Leopold Stokowski's 100-piece orchestra thinks it did a neat trick. For the occasion of Southern California's observance of "Tribute to Russia" day Stokowski had a copy of the "Russian Overture," written recently by the noted Russian composer Prokofiev, sent over on microphone film and it was given its American premiere on a program composed entirely of famous Russian compositions.

Decries U. S. Attitude

STATE COLLEGE, Pa.—Because Americans pass the buck, they are losing democracy, in the opinion of Prof. M. E. John, at Pennsylvania State college. "We have become too complacent," he said. "We have fallen into the attitude of letting the other fellow do it rather than tackling our problems ourselves."

Centralization in local and national government is a result of our complacency, he asserts.

Alphonso I. in 1147, aided by French, German and English crusaders, helped establish Portuguese independence from the Moors by seizing Lisbon.

HEALTH QUIZ

Do you have headaches? ☐ YES ☐ NO
Do you lack pep or vigor? ☐
Do you get irritable easily? ☐
Do you feel depressed—nervous? ☐

Do you feel headachy—depressed—irritable—tired—due to a sluggish, constipated condition? Do you want faster and more effective all-around relief than you can get from an ordinary simple laxative alone? Then, as medical science proves, you should do two things:

1. Get liver bile flowing freely.
2. Clear out the intestinal tract.

To do both, take double-acting Carter's Little Liver Pills tonight. The first thing Carter's usually do while you're comfortably asleep is to increase the flow of liver bile—a vital digestive juice. This helps to digest your food properly. This first Carter's action alone may make you feel much better when you wake up!

Then, Carter's second action helps relieve the sluggish condition that may easily be at the bottom of all your headachy, depressed, tired feeling.

Carter's double action is due to their special formula. Thousands know how well they work. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢ at any drugist's. Take as directed. You'll be glad you did.

And There

OUT IN CHICAGO the other day a former Salem man reached the 50-year mark of service in the Chicago Typographical Union and was given a service button. Then Frank Knox, secretary of the Navy and publisher of The Chicago Daily News, presented a gold watch to the old-time printer in The Daily News composing room.

This man is Mayne R. Northrop, who gained his early experience as a printer in his father's shop in Salem. The father, J. W. Northrop, had established The Salem Daily News, now known as The Salem News, but in the same year, 1889, he sold it to The Salem Publishing Co. A few years later, Northrop served as mayor of Salem.

Mayne Northrop, the son, went to Chicago in 1893, arriving May 9 and going to work the same night in the composing room of The Chicago Record, which was the morning edition of The Daily News.

FIFTY YEARS is a long time to serve in any job, but Salem has a printer who has a better record than Mr. Northrop.

He is William Helman, 83, who spent 58 years at the printing trade before retiring on pension nine years ago.

Helman learned his trade on the old Buckeye State, a weekly, in Lisbon back in 1876. In 1883 he came to Salem and worked for J. K. Rokenbrod on The Republican-Era, which later was acquired by The Salem Publishing Co.

For 51 years "Bill"—he usually was referred to around The News office as "Faithful Bill"—remained in the same plant. He was making up man in the composing room of The News for several years until his retirement in 1934.

FORMER MAYOR Lee D. Schroy of Akron, a candidate for the job he held six years, has just withdrawn from the Republican primary race in the rubber city.

Schroy, who spent his early life in Salem, was regarded as one of the best mayors Akron had had in recent years. He got into politics after he left Salem.

Born near Greenford, Schroy went to school in Salem, later became a clerk in a Salem shoe store and then went to Akron, where for a few years he followed the same business. For several years he has operated an office supply house in Akron.

MT UNION COLLEGE honored two former Salem High school teachers and coaches last week.

Karl Whinnery, graduate of Salem High, who has served 12 years as a trustee of the college, was re-elected for his fifth term.

He was graduated at Mount in 1912 and for several years taught and coached football and also was principal at Ravenna, Salem and Akron Central High schools. Then he went to Sandusky, where he served many years as principal and now is superintendent of schools.

Whinnery is president of the City Superintendents association of the Ohio Education association.

Herbert Pritchard, an Alliance High school teacher and former Salem High teacher and coach, was elected to the alumni council of Mt. Union. At the same time James A. Armstrong, sales manager for the Salem China Co., was elected a member of the council.

E. M. "MOSE" HOLE, son of W. H. R. Hole, Elsworth ave., is one of four members of the athletic department at Wooster college who are now teaching in the Naval flight preparatory school on the Wooster campus.

Hole, whose Wooster basketball teams annually set a fast pace in the Ohio conference, is also Wooster's head tennis coach. He is teaching the theory of flight in the Naval school.

LISBON BRIEFS

No Laughing Matter —

Not A Laugh In Any Of 'em, Declares
Sober-Faced Harry Weiss, Joke Expert

By MALCOLM L. STEPHENSON
AP Features

TRENTON, N. J. — Sober-faced Harry B. Weiss, who has studied a thousand or more joke books dating back through several centuries, says he hasn't gotten a single laugh from them.

After writing a history of the American species of joke book for the New York Public Library, Weiss says his research bored him and left him "totally unresponsive." The same old jokes live on and on, he found, as he read the output from Shakespeare's day to this.

Excursion Into Humor

Surrounded by piles of reports on farm pests and the living costs of humans, the slight and sober little agricultural scientist told of his after-hours excursions into the histories of jest books, dream books, the art of barbering, baby rattles, comic valentines, penmanship and children's books.

He found there was a big boom in publishing and selling the pocket-size joke books during the first World War, when friends sent them to soldiers, but the men in service now get more varied reading matter and the boom has failed to reoccur in World War II.

Weiss avers that Hollywood, Broadway and radio gag writers are the best market now for joke books that keep rolling off the presses year after year.

"They just cook the old ones over," he says.

Did you hear that comedian pull that gag on the radio about the actress who told him she saw his picture and it looked so much like him that she kissed it? And he asked her if it kissed her back, and she said "No," and the comedian said "Then it couldn't have been me."

Dated Gags

Well, says humor historian Weiss, the ladies in merrie olde England were bursting their stays laughing at just about the same joke back in the days of George III.

Weiss says he turned off his radio the other night when he heard a streamlined version of this one, which he read in The Youthful Jester, printed in Baltimore about 1800: Two Irishmen were ten miles from London. "By my soul and St. Patrick," says one, "it is but five miles apiece."

Joe Miller Jest

The first Joe Miller conglomeration of corn came out in London in 1739 under the title Joe Miller's Jestes—or the Wits Vaude-Mecum, according to Weiss's research. The first American version he could find was The American Joe Miller, or Punch for the Million, published in New York in 1849. And "Joe Miller" books are still coming out—"All of them basically the same, according to Weiss.

In his pamphlet for the New York

Public library, the collector had this to say of Joe Miller's Jestes:

"Joe Miller, a comedian who could neither read nor write, and who could not make jokes and who learned his parts with the assistance of his wife, had nothing to do with it, of course."

"He died in 1738 and after his death chapbook (corruption of cheap book) publishers brought out numerous editions of Joe Miller's Jestes. These books with their varied titles frequently contained the same jokes and even in their own times people must have considered many of them as humbugs. The same unhappy jest can be traced through many of them."

"In Gratiae Ludentes, Jestes from the Universitie, appears the joke about the poor shot and the safest place being at the target, and this certainly is not unknown today."

Tough Audience

Chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry of the New Jersey Department of Agriculture and a veteran of 32 years' state service, Weiss admits he's a tough audience for any joker and "can't laugh readily."

Weiss—who back in 1916 first discovered Japanese beetles in the United States, and traced the invasion to infested roots of iris plants imported by a New Jersey nursery—has written more than 600 pamphlets and articles and five books about his scientific work and his hobbies.

"And I never made a cent," he swears.

While other men took up golf or collected stamps, he relaxed with such activities as going to museums and photographing pottery rattles that babies played with about 4,000 B. C.

"I get interested in something, and I study and collect it for two or three years, and write it up, and then I completely forget it," he explains.

Battle Tactics 'Dirty'

Welcoming them to Jacksonville and the naval air operational training command, Lt. Comdr. J. S. Thach, aviation gunnery expert, said:

"If you don't already know it, you will soon learn that our battle tactics are downright dirty. War lacks the sportsmanship you learned in football. We put more than 11 men on the field, and we kick off and carry the ball both before and after the whistle has blown."

Thach's address was the highlight of the graduates' first day at the gunners' school, where for the next two weeks they will receive an intensive course in aerial gunnery.

That will be followed by extensive workouts in patrol bombing at Cecil field and Daytona Beach; torpedo bombing from Jacksonville and Fort Lauderdale; fighter-plane instruction at Lee field and at Melbourne; land-based bombers from Sanford and Lake City, and in observation and cruiser scoutplanes from the Jacksonville main station.

Aviation Stressed

Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the naval air operational training command, told the Annapolis graduates: "Aviation's vital role in modern warfare is now everywhere recognized. Therefore, it is imperative that all line officers of the Navy, whether on duty afloat or ashore, should have a thorough knowledge of the functions, capabilities and limitations of aircraft."

"That is why you have been sent here—to get practical first-hand study of naval aerial operations," he said, adding, "This training is unquestionably one of the most important phases of your intensified instruction for fleet duty."

The graduates will be quartered and messed with student aviation officers in the student officers' headquarters. Upon completion of their training, each will be granted two weeks' leave before reporting to his assignment with the fleet or the Marine Corps. Like other Navy and Marine Corps officers, also graduates of the naval academy, they will become eligible for regular flight training after two years in other duty.

News and Views, Briefly
On What's Going On In Capital

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 14—The civilian population was asked today to get along with less canned goods and simpler clothing.

The War Food administration allocated to civilians 70 per cent of next year's canned vegetables and soups and 53 per cent of the prospective fruits and juices. This will provide a somewhat smaller per capita quota than this year's allotments.

Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the War Production board disclosed plans to clamp down on the output of expensive fabrics and concentrate priorities to stimulate mass production of low-priced clothing.

"We need not have clothes rationing," said Nelson, if frills are done away with and sheer volume substituted.

Food problems concerned the highly placed officials in the administration. A special advisory committee, it was learned, reported that farm parity prices stood in the way of all-out food production. Parity prices are designed to give agricultural products as much purchasing power as they had in a base period, usually 1909-14. The report said the parity scale is an "utterly faulty mechanism" dating back to "a bygone day."

The War Labor board was reported set to announce a new policy to dissolve the deadlock with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers over the signing of a contract with the operators. The board was described as satisfied, without the formality of a contract, if union and management comply with its orders.

Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky) of the senate kept the recessed Congress in the news by declaring the senate would be asked in the fall to act on a general resolution committing the United States to an interest in international affairs after the war ends.

WASHINGTONVILLE

The Washingtonville and Leetonia Youth Fellowship held a joint meeting in the Methodist church Sunday evening when Miss Derringer entertained with moving pictures of Bethesda.

Mrs. Merle Cutchall entertained the Jolly Twelve club members at her home on Friday evening. Other guests were Mrs. Frieda Lee and Mrs. Andrew Vaughn of Salem and Mrs. Roy Mathey of Leetonia. Honorary cards were awarded to Mrs. Russell Smith, Mrs. George Morrow, Mrs. William Grim, Mrs. Andrew Vaughn and Mrs. Don Spear. Mrs. Myron DeJane will be the next hostess.

Friday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Davis were Mrs. Homer Faircliff of Wilmington, Calif., Mrs. John Arnold and Mrs. Russell Frederick and daughter of Sebring.

John F. Davis of the U. S. Navy has been promoted to fireman second class. He is on the U. S. S. Prairie.

Farewell Honor

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Riddle entertained a few friends from Salem and Miss Helen Mae Atkinson of this place at a luncheon Friday, honoring their daughter, Mrs. Tom Tilley, who left Monday for Madison, Wis., to be with her husband. He is stationed at Camp McCoy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boston and daughter spent a few days last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Weikart and family at Novelty, O. Fred and Peggy Weikart returned to their home at Novelty after a six weeks visit here with relatives.

The condition of John L. Woods, a former Washingtonville resident, who has been confined in a Cleveland hospital for several weeks, remains the same.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Smith and family attended the Lynn family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Fosnacht at Canfield Sunday.

Mansfield Plant's
Production Praised

MANSFIELD, July 14—Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.'s appliance division here demonstrated today how two-pound chunks of steel are transformed into armor-piercing shot in 80 seconds.

The demonstration was viewed by Army and Navy officers and newsmen during a tour of the plant in connection with awarding of the Army-Navy E pennant only 14 months after complete conversion of the Mansfield works to production of anti-tank shot, aircraft parts, binoculars and other war products.

After machines pound out the 37 millimeter armor-piercing shot, women inspectors check the bullets.

American Leaguers Win All-Star Game - - Minus Yankees

HOMER BY DOERR CLINCHES GAME BY 5 TO 3 SCORE

Red Sox Infielder Turns In Yankee Trick In Sec- ond Inning

(By Associated Press)
PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—The American league finally has proved it doesn't need the Yankees—as long as it can do the Bombers' tricks with a bat.

This, naturally, is the home-run or a reasonable facsimile thereof—a Yankee specialty from way back in baseball. And, while Manager Joe McCarthy didn't use a single member of his Bomber brigade in knocking off the National leaguers 5 to 3 last night in the 11th edition of the All-Star slugging party, the way it happened made you look quick to be sure it wasn't a Yankee putting on the crusher.

But this time it was Robert Pershing Doerr, the Los Angeles "Lulu" who has been playing a lot of infield for the Boston Red Sox, but has more or less been the second-base shadow cast by the Yankees' Joe Gordon for several seasons. Joe the Flash was just the "American league bench jockey" last night, and the Nationals went out in front with a run in the first inning and were just bouncing along behind Bob Cooper.

Then, in the second, before you or the $1,338 cash customers knew what was cooking, Moris fireball lost its control for a couple of innings and he walked Chet Laabs, the St. Louis Browns' nimble fly-chaser, and Jake Early, Washington's work horse catcher.

Then up stepped Robert Pershing and aimed one at the left field stands, and it just barely gasped its way into the lower seats. A yard shorter, and it would have been only a fly out.

That was your ball game, and the Americans simply ambled to their eighth win in the 11 All-Star games.

In the third chapter, a pair of pounding doubles produced another run. And if that didn't settle the issue, the only guy among the 20 National leaguers in the game who looked as if he would just as soon have a bat as a tommy-gun in a tight spot was Vince DiMaggio of Pittsburgh. He got into the game in the third inning and poked a single into left. In the seventh, he tripled and came home on Dixie Walker's pinch fly. And in the ninth, he hit the hardest ball of the night, well into the upper stands in left field.

Yanks On Bench
There were five Yankees on the bench—and they stayed there, because, as Manager McCarthy put it, "We got out in front quick, and we didn't need 'em."

Johnny Vander Meer, the old double-no-hit kid of the Cincinnati Reds, was called on to take over for Cooper in the third with one run in, one on and one out, and he fanned Rudy York and Laabs to end that inning. From there, he fanned four and wound up with a total of 11 strikeouts for his two All-Star appearances, equalling Carl Hubbell's record.

It was a convincing American league victory, even to the older members of the National league cheering and howling society.

When you come right down to it, Manager Billy the Kid Southworth had the right answer.

"We just didn't get those long ones—and we didn't get 'em in bunches," he said.

One-Armed Factory Executive Is Tops As Softball Hurler

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, July 14.—A boyhood accident which cost Billy Bartz the loss of his left arm failed to keep him off the sports field—and in a starring role.

Billy was 11 when he suffered the loss of his arm—a giant firecracker he had picked up exploding in his hand. Billy was interested in all sports and baseball was his favorite game. Some day, he often had hoped, he might become a big league pitcher.

But baseball, with his handicap, was sidetracked for softball and Billy was good enough to play on boys' teams in suburban Forest Park, his home. He was a pitcher and the kids who batted against him soon realized he was just about the best softball hurler in the community.

In a few years, Bartz' reputation as a softball pitcher brought him offers to pitch in faster competition of top-ranking moundsmen—and his record shows the impressive total of 265 victories against 41 defeats. He's still pitching for the Matches and among the teams he has defeated this season were the South Bend 1941 World Champions, on two occasions.

Bartz, who is employed as a production manager, is 27.

As All-Star Game Hero Scored On Home Run

BOBBY DOERR, second baseman of the Boston Red Sox and star of the All-Star game in Philadelphia, is shown crossing the plate on his home run in the second inning of the annual American-National league game played before a big crowd in Philadelphia. Chet Laabs of the Browns, left, and Jake Early, Washington catcher, who walked and scored on Doerr's homer, are seen congratulating the Red Sox socker. Catcher Walker Cooper of the Cardinals is at the right. The American league won the game, 5 to 3.

Recreation And Gold Bars Win Shutouts In Class A

Two shutouts marked the Class A league softball games at Centennial park last night, while in the Class B circuit Paxsons won both ends of a twin bill to advance to the second round playoff tomorrow night with the Slovaks.

Victims of the shutouts in the senior loop were the Potters and Strains, beaten by the Recreation and the Gold Bars, respectively. The Recreation blanked their opponents 3 to 0, while the Gold Bars dropped Strains 6 to 0.

The Recreation scored a lone run in the first inning and followed with two more in the fourth. The Potters' three hits failed to register. The Gold Bars, outpitching the Slovaks 5 to 3, scored one run in the second, three more in the sixth and two additional tallies in the eighth.

Paxsons had an easy time of it in their twin engagement last evening, scoring at will to beat the Metzgers 13 to 5 and the Friends, 15 to 3.

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—

"When you have two men on and someone hits a home run, the damage is done," remarked Billy Southworth, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals and the National league All-Stars. And that just about sums up last night's game in which the National leaguers took their customary shelling from the American leaguers.

Things looked quite rosy for the senior circuit until Mort Cooper walked a couple of guys in the second and along came Bobby (The Swinging) Doerr and boom!...

Then the ball game was practically over. But just to show you what optimists these baseball players are, the losers came into the dressing room talking about how hard Bill Herman hit a liner in the ninth and what might have happened if it had been a few feet higher.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE
"More from Southworth: 'This isn't like a World Series. Seems like we ought to have a few more games. I'm just getting warmed up.'"

And, discussing his decision to Yank Mort Cooper off the hill before his three-inning stint: "I'm glad it was one of my own men. I felt more free to take him out."

Joe McCarthy, who wasn't especially jubilant about getting square with Southworth for what happened last fall in the World Series: "Don't bother me. I've got to dress and catch a train."

SHIBE PARK SHIVAREE
Before last night's game someone automatically asked: "Who's pitching for the Yankees?" But there wasn't a Yankee in the ball game for the first time in All-Star history. Maybe the Yanks weren't needed this year—or maybe their absence reflects the closeness of the American league race.

Remember a few years ago when the National league was having a tight one there was quite a fuss about whether pitchers should be saved for the big game or saved for the tilts that really count.

CLEANING THE CUFF
The ball players don't get any pay for the All-Star games, but they get into the park free and get two extra tickets thrown in. For the first time non-workers were admitted to the press box. There weren't enough scribes to fill the 300-odd seats, the rest were sold to bring in a few more bucks for the baseball equipment fund.

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH
PACIFIC—When U. S. Marines introduced the American brand of football to fans here recently, two well-known players were on hand to help out. The teams, both made up of Marines, played to a scoreless tie.

One of the squads was bolstered by the play of Lt. Philip Mayer of Flushing, L. I. Mayer turned down a contract with the Philadelphia Eagles professional team in favor of joining the Marines. In the opposing lineup was Lt. Joseph Terzi of Little Neck, L. I., a former backfield ace at Niagara university.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—"Slip" Madigan will coach the Notre Dame style of football at the University of Iowa next fall. The system calls for long gaining plays, with every one a potential touchdown play.

"Why dudge up the field three yards at a crack when it is easier and better to play for the big stake?" Madigan said in response to questions about his 1943 plans.

SUITABLE HOME FOR TWO FAMILIES, INCLUDING TWO ACRES OF GROUND

This property is located right at the edge of Damascus, in excellent neighborhood. Is improved with a 10-room house, all modern; not entirely separate, but has two kitchens. Has a wonderful lawn, lovely shade trees and an abundance of mixed shrubbery. Has three-car garage. Fruit for home use.

This home at one time could have been sold for $9,000.00. However, we are offering it now, on account of a death, for just $5,000.00. This is much cheaper than an ordinary single house would cost. Now, if you have a married daughter or son or any other relative that wants a home, the two of you should buy this home without fail.

CURFEW PROPOSAL BACK IN COUNCIL

Referred to Joint Committee After Civic Meeting Discussion

Several persons contended that passage of a curfew ordinance would not curb juvenile delinquency and that the measure would just become another law to be violated.

Still others agreed that adoption of the curfew would help to a certain extent and recommended its passage.

Those who expressed only a lukewarm attitude toward the curfew proposition, declared that there is a lack of proper enforcement of existing laws.

Joe Kelley, who is in close touch with the younger crowds due to his Memorial building associations, strongly recommended passage of some sort of a curfew measure.

Parents Are Blamed
Persons who charged a laxity in present law enforcement cited examples of young boys frequenting pool rooms in town in violation of an existing city ordinance which bars a child 16 years or under from such an establishment.

Police, on the other hand, were reported favoring the adoption of a curfew law to aid them in detaining any persons suspected of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

"Parents are as much to blame, if not more so," was another accusation.

The issue was referred back to committee upon the recommendation of Councilman-at-large Charles Rheutan.

The Kiel Canal was completed in 1895.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

forces on the island cut off from supplies and reinforcements, save for the few which might be moved by air.

Allied progress northward should be helped vastly by yesterday's capture of the great seaport of Augusta, which lies between Syracuse and Catania. Augusta's harbor is one of the best in the Mediterranean and is a Godsend to the Allies, who have needed more deep-water harborage for the unloading of the expeditionary forces and equipment from the vast armada of expeditionary ships.

Another important development is the capture of Florida, Palazzolo and Ragusa. These places lie across the tip of the southeastern peninsula astride which the Allied forces are forging forward. The significance of these captures is that they are communications centers. Ragusa is a strategic point for both railway and highways. If you will look at your maps you will see what this involves.

It means that the American and other Allied troops on the west arm of the peninsula, and Montgomery's forces on the eastern coast, are in process of establishing communications across the tip of the peninsula for fast movement of men, equipment and supplies. This brilliant stroke also divides enemy contingents in that area.

Air power continues to play its major part magnificently. Axis communications are being neutralized and the defending air fleet is being smothered.

hands through which Allied reinforcements and supplies could be poured, had been under Allied domination since Monday at 4 p. m. when a British and a Greek destroyer boldly sailed into the harbor. They held the port under their guns until British troops marched in early today.

The port and installations of the harbor, 19 miles north of Syracuse and 35 miles south of Catania, were undamaged.

Catania airport, next objective, was heavily bombed from the sea early yesterday morning, and formations of flying fortresses paid another of their devastating visits yesterday, leaving their targets in flames.

Yanks First In Ragusa
Along the curving line linking the American and British fronts, the Americans still were in contact with the crack Hermann Goering division, but Gen. Patton's armor was continuing to push deep inland and was reported on the edge of Niscemi, 25 miles northeast of Licata and about the same distance northwest of Ragusa.

The Americans had been the first to enter Ragusa.

Modica, about six miles southeast of Ragusa, already had been taken by the Canadians.

At Ragusa the Americans and Canadians had been joined by the British who had captured Priolo enroute from the east coast.

Allied food for the civil population already was being landed in Sicily, and headquarters said the fleet of 3,000 Allied warships and transports continued to pour men and supplies onto the beaches and into the captured ports despite efforts of the enemy to concentrate his submarine forces against the convoys.

The announcement said "counter measures have been highly successful and disheartening to the enemy."

"Some thousands" of Axis prisoners have been taken, the communiqué said, among them the entire headquarters of the 26th Italian division. Capture of the division commander, Gen. D'Avet, was announced yesterday, and today's communiqué said this division has "been almost entirely eliminated."

Besides bombing Milo airfield at the western end of the island, and Catania, Allied air forces knocked out 160 trucks, 45 freight cars and six locomotives yesterday.

Forty-two Axis planes were destroyed, at a cost of seven Allied aircraft.

Strong formations of Liberators from the middle east command unloaded 425,000 pounds of high explosives and incendiaries on Vibo Valentia and Crotone airfields on the Italian mainland.

Columbiana Group Aids Ration Task

COLUMBIANA, July 14.—Thirty-nine men and women, volunteer workers, went to Salem Tuesday evening and assisted in processing of some 1,400 new "A" gasoline ration books. This is the second crew of workers from Columbiana to help with the task. Last week 15 volunteers responded.

A meeting of Benjamin Firestone post, American Legion, will be held this evening, at which time the group will discuss the advisability of having the annual street fair and homecoming this fall. Guest speaker will be Harlan Brubaker, who will tell about his recent trip to Boys' State.

Members of the Eastern Star lodge and their families and Masons and their families held a picnic at Firestone park Tuesday evening.

About Town

Speaks To Lions Club

The role of the Salvation Army in the present conflict was the subject of a talk by Capt. Robert Barton at a meeting of the Lions club in the Lape hotel last night.

Capt. Barton, introduced by Cloyd Reynard, related that within one hour after the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor the Salvation Army had mobilized and was rendering invaluable aid. The organization, he said, was one of the first to be eliminated in the Axis countries under the rule of the war lords.

Two members, Ray Himmelsbach and Robert Hammel, who will leave for camp Monday, were presented duffel bags by the club.

Describes Mexican Trip
Mrs. Stanton Heck gave an interesting account of her recent trip to Mexico at a meeting of Rotary club yesterday afternoon at the Memorial building.

A highlight of Mrs. Heck's talk was her description of a visit at the scene of the active volcano which had opened near the crater of an extinct one, causing enormous property damage and loss of life. She also described her visit in Mexico City, its many churches and cathedrals and the people there.

H. E. Musser was in charge of the program.

Report of Rommel Plane Being Down, Unconfirmed

LONDON, July 14.—British sources had no confirmation today of a report that German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was shot down by Allied fighter pilots Tuesday while en route to Sicily aboard an Axis transport plane.

The report, which was said to have originated from a broadcast by a German underground radio station "Atlantic," was carried by the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet and sent to London last night by a Reuters correspondent.

Rommel, according to this report, was said to have been traveling under strong fighter escort to take command of Axis forces in Sicily. The report said he was accompanied by Gen. Siegfried Westfals, Lieut. Col. Kiehl and three Italian staff officers.

Blind Doing Their Share To Win War

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, July 14.—Sightless Americans, their deft hands turned to the war effort, earned more than $1,000,000 in wages on government contracts in supervised workshops during 1942.

C. C. Kleber of New York, general manager of the National Industries For the Blind, general manager of the National Industries today in an address prepared for the 20th biennial convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind.

National Industries was founded by the American foundation for the blind as a non-profit, allocating agency for government orders under the Wagner-O'Day act. The initial order from Uncle Sam was received Jan. 1, 1939, and within the year 36 workshops for the blind were participating, making pillowcases, mattresses, deck swabs, mop handles, cocoa mats, mailing bags and assorted mops and brooms.

Since the primary goal of federal legislation making the program possible is to supply wages to the blind, said Kleber, "the most important fact to me is that during 1942 the blind persons in these 55 workshops received more than $1,000,000 in wages on government contracts alone."

"When this war is over," he added, "the blind can feel proud that they have done their share to win it."

Two Youths Drowned
COLUMBUS, July 14.—Two youths were drowned here yesterday, Robert Harris, 10, when a boat overturned in Alum creek, and James Irwin, 16, when he was swept over a dam while swimming in the Scioto river.

Swimmer Is Drowned

troops and upon anti-aircraft batteries. Reinforcement or supply of the imperiled garrison by land was rendered virtually impossible by the wily American fighters.

Today's communiqué from Gen. Douglas MacArthur told of the annihilation of 150 Japanese trapped 10 miles northeast of Munda at Enogai inlet.

Another 150 Japanese list their lives off the coast of Vangunu island to the southeast of Munda, but they no longer were defending the air base. They had been ousted from that island by our troops and were trying to escape in barges.

Vila, Munda's supply depot across the Kula gulf of Kolombangara island, took a new pounding from the skies.

In the jungle perimeter of defenses before Munda itself, two strong points were knocked out by our advancing jungle fighters despite stiffening resistance of the enemy.

On northeastern New Guinea, at the other end of the Pacific offensive, Liberators, Flying Fortresses and Mitchells dropped over 50 tons of bombs on Salamaua, the enemy air base toward which our jungle troops are fighting, and 21 tons on nearby Lae.
